'Promoting Indigenous Community Engagement'

BRONWYN FREDERICKS, MA PHD is a Murri woman from South-East Queensland with more than 30 years of experience working in and with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Community-based Organisations, State and Federal Governments, and the Tertiary Education sector.

As University of Queensland Pro-Vice-Chancellor for Indigenous Engagement, Professor Fredericks is responsible for leading Indigenous strategy, strengthening leadership of Indigenous Engagement within the University, and building links with the Community.

She also leads implementation of the University's first Reconciliation Action Plan. For more than 3 decades Bronwyn Fredericks has been an educator, manager, researcher, activist and change agent.

Join the rest of us at 1.00 PM on SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 2019 at the WYNNUM LIBRARY to meet and to hear an enlivening talk by Queensland Indigenous Leader BRONWYN FREDERICKS.

Entry to this Reconciliation Queensland 'Speaker Series' Meeting is free - All are most welcome

Feel free to bring a plate of food or refreshments to our afternoon tea. This is informal, no motions are on the agenda for the gathering.

Donations are always gratefully received to help our volunteer-run organisation deliver these events.

We aim to promote reconciliation while giving members an opportunity to engage with important community figures & leading experts.
